Message from Koji Okano, Executive Officer and Head of the Dubbing & Subtitling Business Division:

For over 30 years, since the early days when dialogue was first incorporated into games, our company has been involved in game audio production. Throughout this time, we have had the privilege of overseeing the dialogue recording for numerous acclaimed and high-profile titles across a wide range of genres. As a result of this growing body of work, the number of projects we undertake has continued to increase year after year. We believe this reflects our clients' trust not only in the quality of our audio production, but also in our comprehensive production capabilities that support every stage of a project.

In recent years, we have seen a steady increase in inquiries and project requests not only from gaming companies in Japan, but also from overseas gaming companies, including China, South Korea, Europe, and North America. In addition to Japanese voice recording, our track record in multilingual voice recording continues to grow, further strengthening our ability to support the production of global game titles.

This year, we are pleased to return to gamescom as an exhibitor for the second consecutive year. We look forward to building new relationships with game developers, publishers, and other industry professionals from around the world, while placing an even greater focus on expanding our business in the European and North American markets.

Our vision is: "Bringing the unique appeal of games from around the world to more players through collaboration and creative synergy." We are committed to delivering audio production that brings out the full potential of games from around the world, across every genre.

Beyond games, TFC has extensive experience in Japanese audio production for overseas films, television series, and animation. Drawing on the expertise and industry relationships we have cultivated across a wide range of content categories, we are able to deliver the most effective audio production solutions tailored to the unique needs of each project—one of our greatest strengths.

Through our participation at gamescom again this year, we look forward to introducing TFC to even more partners from around the world and contributing to the creation of outstanding entertainment content.
